A single day update for physiotherapists currently using acupuncture. We will revise commonly used points and learn some less common, but very useful additional points. There is time for revision of needling skills and looking at methods to stimulate Deqi. We will look at meridian pathways and link these to outpatient symptoms and then determine how to select effective points from both Western (pain) and TCM (Qi and pathogens) models.

Content:

- Revision of meridian pathways
- Common treatment protocols
- Introduction to western needling techniques including trigger points, and periosteal needling.
- Selecting effective points
- Treatment progression
